Derek Chauvin found guilty on all counts, GS community reacts

The murder trial for the death of George Floyd concluded yesterday as the jury found Derek Chauvin guilty on all counts, and for many members of the Georgia Southern community, this came as an overdue relief.

The challenges of virtual theatre and Georgia Southern's final Spring play

We discussed with Newell some of the challenges that have come about when switching to a live stream theater format, “We also have a limit in what things we can actually put into streaming because some of the companies that hold the rights will not allow it. Or if they do, they have really strict rules about it.”

THE GEORGE-ANNE REFLECTOR

What to Put on a Resume When You've Never Worked a Job in Your Life

A resume. That one piece of paper that everyone needs but dreads crafting. This becomes especially terrifying when you realize that you've never had an actual job. Thoughts such as, "my resume will look so blank" and "no one will ever hire me" begin filling your brain. But don't start hyperventilating just yet.
